

Integrable lattices of a particular symmetry

Chris Field¹

Nalini Joshi¹

April 30, 2007

1. School of Mathematics and Statistics F07, University of Sydney, NSW 2006 (Australia).

The classification of lattices that are integrable, in the sense of higher-dimensional consistency, is extended. The existing classification has been the object of much interest recently. We find previously unrecognised cases that appear not to be transformable to the lattices in the existing classification via the ‘permissible transformations’. A discussion of the algebraic entropy of these lattices will also be given.